

Whistleblowing policy

1 Introduction

- 1.1 We are committed to conducting our business with honesty and integrity, and we expect our officers, employees, contractors, suppliers and agents to maintain high standards as set out in our Code of Conduct. A culture of openness and accountability is essential to minimise the risk of illegal or unethical conduct and to address this conduct if it occurs.
- 1.2 This policy sets out a process for reporting illegal, corrupt or unethical conduct occurring in our business. Your disclosure can be made anonymously and your identity will be kept confidential (except in certain permitted circumstances). We are committed to ensuring that anyone who reports such conduct is not victimised as a result.
- 1.3 There are protections available under this policy and at law provided:

- 2.2 One of the aims of this policy is to comply with our legislative obligations to provide information about the protections available to whistleblowers, including the protections under the Whistleblower Protection Laws. This policy is to be read subject to those statutory protections.

7 What information do I need to provide when making a disclosure?

7.1 To enable us to properly investigate a disclosure, it is recommended that disclosures contain the following information:

- (1) That the disclosure is being made under this policy;
- (2) The nature of the improper conduct, and when it occurred or is likely to occur;
- (3) The name(s) of the people involved, or their role titles; and
- (4) Any other supporting materials or evidence, such as documents, emails or the names of any other potential witnesses.

8 Can I make a disclosure anonymously?

8.1 You can make a disclosure of improper conduct anonymously. However, to enable us to properly investigate and respond to disclosures, we encourage disclosers to provide their name when making a disclosure.

8.2 If you make an anonymous disclosure, the person investigating the disclosure may not be able to provide you with information about the status of any investigation into the conduct. Anonymous disclosers should endeavour to maintain communications with us to enable follow up on their disclosure.

9 Confidentiality of disclosures

9.1 We will keep a discloser's identity (or information likely to lead to a person being identified as a discloser) confidential, except in the following circumstances:

- (1) the discloser consents in writing to this information being disclosed;
- (2) during the investigation process, we are permitted to disclose information (other than the identity of the discloser) reasonably necessary for the purposes of investigating the disclosure. We will take reasonable steps to reduce the risk of the discloser being identified;
- (3) we need to disclose this information to obtain confidential legal advice or representation; or

- (4) we are required or permitted to do so by law, or we need to disclose the information to prevent a serious and imminent threat to life, health or property.

9.2 If you receive information about the identity of a discloser (whether directly or indirectly), you must keep that information confidential (except in the circumstances permitted above). If you do not keep that information confidential or you disclose information likely to lead to the person being identified as a discloser (except in the circumstances permitted above):

- (1) if you are one of our employees – you will be subject to disciplinary action, which may include a formal written warning, or termination of your employment,
- (2) if you are not one of our employees – we may terminate your engagement or appointment, or take other appropriate corrective action; and
- (3) you may be exposed to criminal and civil penalties, including substantial fines and / or jail.

9.3 Files and records relating to disclosures will be treated as confidential and stored securely.

10 How will we investigate a disclosure?

10.1 The way we will investigate a disclosure of improper conduct will depend on who raises the concern, the seriousness and nature of the conduct disclosed, and who receives the disclosure. The objective of an investigation is to determine whether there is evidence which substantiates the concern raised in the disclosure.

10.2 The usual steps in responding to a disclosure are set out below.

10.3 If the disclosure is appropriately dealt with under this policy, we will endeavour to:

- (1) investigate the disclosure within a reasonable period of time,
- (2) ensure that any investigation is fair and objective;
- (3) avoid conflicts of interest in carrying out any investigation; and
- (4) keep information relating to disclosures (including the identity of the discloser) confidential, except as required by law and permitted under this policy.

10.4 The investigation team will be coordinated by the Whistleblowing Officer. In some cases we may appoint external investigators such as lawyers or forensic accountants.

- 10.5 If the discloser can be contacted, the Whistleblowing Officer or recipient of the disclosure will discuss the likely steps of the investigation with the discloser (including whether the discloser consents to their identity being disclosed) and provide the discloser with updates from time to time (where appropriate).
- 10.6 The outcome of any investigation will be reported on a confidential basis to the Managing Director or to the Board as appropriate, and where possible, to the discloser. If the investigation substantiates the disclosure we are committed to addressing any wrongdoing, to the extent practicable in the circumstances.

11 How do we ensure fair treatment of employees mentioned in a disclosure?

- 11.1 Our usual practice is to ensure that any investigation process is confidential and fair.
- 11.2 We will endeavour to:
- (1) maintain the privacy of employees who are mentioned in a disclosure or to whom a disclosure relates;
 - (2) provide employees who are mentioned in a disclosure or to whom a disclosure relates, an opportunity to respond (where appropriate and subject to our requirements to maintain confidentiality).

12 Victimisation is prohibited

- 12.1 We are committed to protecting persons from being victimised in the workplace as a result of an actual or potential disclosure. These protections are essential to creating an environment where our employees, officers and others who work with us are comfortable reporting any improper conduct. However, for practical reasons, we may not be able to extend the full range of protections to persons who are not our officers or employees.
- 12.2 Victimisation is conduct that:
- (1) causes any detriment to another person; or
 - (2) constitutes the making of a threat to cause detriment to another person;
- where the reason (or part of the reason) for that conduct is a belief or suspicion that the other person (or any other person) made, may have made, proposes to make, or could make a disclosure of improper conduct.
- 12.3 Detriment includes but is not limited to:
- (1) dismissing or demoting an employee;
 - (2) injuring an employee in their employment;
 - (3) altering an employee's position or duties to their disadvantage;
 - (4) discriminating between an employee and other employees;
 - (5) harassing or intimidating a person;
 - (6) harming or injuring a person, including causing psychological harm; and

- (7) damaging a person's property, reputation, business or financial position or causing any other damage to a person.

12.4 Detriment does not include reasonable management action to protect a person from detriment (for example reallocating duties or reporting lines) or to manage unsatisfactory performance of a person who is or may be a discloser.

12.5 If you consider that you have been victimised as a result of making a disclosure, or in the belief that you have made, or may make, a disclosure, you should immediately report the conduct under this policy.

12.6 Where a person is found to have engaged in victimisation, then:

- (1) if the person is one of our employees – the person will be subject to disciplinary action which may include a formal written warning, or termination of employment with us; and
- (2) if the person is not one of our employees – we may terminate the person's engagement or appointment, or take other appropriate corrective action.

12.7 The Whistleblower Protection Laws prohibit victimisation. If a court decides that you have victimised another person in breach of the Whistleblower Protection Laws, the court may order you to:

- (1) pay compensation to the person who was victimised;
- (2) pay substantial fines and / or go to jail.

We may also be ordered to pay substantial penalties and legal costs.

13 What support and protections do we provide for disclosers?

13.1 If you are one of our employees or officers, you are entitled to support. We may explore options such as taking leave, relocation to another area of business or a secondment arrangement while the disclosure is being investigated.

13.2 If you are one of our employees, you will not be subject to disciplinary action for making a disclosure on reasonable grounds. You may however still be subject to disciplinary action for misconduct that is revealed as a result of your disclosure. We may take the disclosure into account when determining the nature of any disciplinary action taken against you.

13.3 If you think your disclosure has not been dealt with sufficiently, or if you think your identity has been disclosed in breach of this policy, you may raise the concern with Managing Director if you have not already done so, or report this concern under this policy.

14 Can I report my concern externally?

14.1 This policy is intended to facilitate internal disclosures of improper conduct as defined in this policy.

14.2 In addition to being reportable under this policy, disclosures about protected matters (as defined in the Whistleblower Protection Laws) can be reported directly to an external regulatory body including ASIC or APRA, or the Commissioner of Taxation (for a protected disclosure under the Taxation Administration Act 1953 (Cth)).

14.3 The Corporations Act enables you to make a public interest disclosure or an emergency disclosure about a protected matter to a journalist or a member of parliament in certain limited circumstances.

- 14.4 Before reporting any concern externally, we recommend you contact our Whistleblowing Officer who is trained at handling disclosures and can discuss the available options with you. We also recommend you seek independent legal advice (at your own cost) before reporting any concern externally. A disclosure to a legal practitioner for the purposes of obtaining legal advice or representation in relation to the operation of the Whistleblower Protection Laws is a protected disclosure.
- 14.5 Nothing in this policy is intended to prevent any person from reporting possible breaches of laws to relevant government agencies or authorities.

15 Protections available to disclosers at law

- 15.1 If your disclosure is a protected disclosure as defined under the Whistleblower Protection Laws, these laws provide that:
- (1) you cannot be subject to any civil, criminal or administrative liability, for making a protected disclosure;
 - (2) no contractual or other remedy may be enforced and no contractual or other right may be exercised against you on the basis of the protected disclosure;
 - (3) you may be subject to civil, criminal or administrative liability for conduct that is revealed by the protected disclosure; and
 - (4) if the protected disclosure is to ASIC, APRA or the Commissioner of Taxation, or is a public interest disclosure or emergency disclosure as permitted under the Corporations Act (see clause 14 of this policy), the information is not admissible in evidence against you in criminal proceedings, or in proceedings for the imposition of a penalty, except for proceedings in respect of providing false information.
- 15.2 If you have been victimised for making a protected disclosure under the Whistleblower Protection Laws or in the belief that you have, or may make such a disclosure, possible remedies available under the Whistleblower Protection Laws include reinstatement, compensation, an order prohibiting the victimisation or an apology. The victimiser can be ordered to pay substantial monetary fines or imprisoned. Protections for QCoal Group employees also exist under the Fair Work Act 2009 (Cth). These are enforceable as a matter of statute and do not form part of this policy.

16 What are the consequences of a baseless disclosure?

- 16.1 You may be liable to disciplinary or other form of appropriate corrective action if we conclude that you have made a disclosure maliciously and without having reasonable grounds to do so. The legal protections are not available if a disclosure is made without reasonable grounds and is deliberately false.
